All America Goes To Polls To Cast Its Ballots For Presidency

FORECAST OF HEAVY VOTE ASSURED OF FULFILMENT

Favorable Weather As Election Day Dawns

LAST PLEAS MADE

Davis And Coolidge Give Speeches By Wireless

(Reuter's American Service)

New York, Nov. 4.—Nationwide balloting for the President, Vice-President, Members of Congress and State Governors began early this morning with weather doing best to contribute to the fulfilment of the forecasts of a heavy poll.

Yesterday evening the rival candidates finally appealed to the electorate, President Coolidge and Mr. Davis by wireless, Senator La Follette contenting himself with a manifesto urging the Progressives to "give the lie to the assumption that this country no longer boasts of an incorruptible and courageous citizenry."

(Reuter's American Service)

London, November 4.—A telegram to the Morning Post from New York says that the odds are 10 to 1 in favor of President Coolidge but the stock market and business continue to mark time.

A Times' New York telegram says that a landslide for President Coolidge is generally expected. Wall Street betting is 12 to 1 on President Coolidge. Odds of 30 to 1 are being offered against Senator La Follette, but are finding no takers.

(Reuter's American Service)

Apart from the Presidential race two governorship contests are attracting wide attention.

Trans-Pacific Shipping Lines Begin To Realise Adverse Effects Of War

Greater Proportion Of Cargo Booked Here For America At Present Is Transhipment Business From The Outports, Principally Tientsin

The trans-Pacific liners are just beginning now to feel the effects of the recent warfare around Shanghai, as regards freight shipments. By far the greater proportion of the cargo going out from this port to the United States at the present time is transhipment cargo coming from the outports, mostly from Tientsin. Not nearly the regular amount of local export cargo is being shipped, very little having come in, owing to the incidence of the recent hostilities, which cut off practically all lines of communication.

As regards cargo coming from America the average quantity is still coming forward, but shipping men generally here are rather expecting that during the coming month or two there will be a decided drop in the amount coming out. The cargo coming forward at present is such as was ordered before the outbreak of hostilities, and it is only natural to expect that local merchants placed very few orders during the time the hostilities were in progress.

INTERNAL DISTRIBUTION

A reporter for The China Press made inquiry of Mr. E. M. Wilson, who is in charge of the Pacific Mail interests here during absence of Mr. B. C. Haile, regarding internal distribution in the United States so far as they relate to handling of Chinese products and his answers are probably not without interest to the general public.

"Without asking you to be specific could you give some general idea as to what part of America is the dividing line east or west of which it would be cheaper to ship either by way of New York or by way of San Francisco?" Mr. Wilson was asked.

"There are a number of factors that will have to be taken into consideration in giving over a general idea. One of the points that must be taken into consideration is that freight rates in the eastern part of the United

STOVE DEALER'S SHOP SCENE OF MENACING FIRE

Two Alarms Are Answered By Settlement Fire Brigade

Members of the Settlement Fire Brigade were called out to answer two alarms yesterday.

At 9.20 o'clock in the morning, a call was received from an oil stove dealer's shop at No. E638 Burkill Road. When the firemen arrived, both floors of the building were in flames. A quantity of kerosene was stored in the upper floor of No. 638 and, aided by this, the fire was making rapid headway.

The monitor was used on the front and main portions of the building, while lines were taken into the burning premises on either side. The fire was soon brought under control, and after half an hour's work sufficiently extinguished to permit the greater part of the division to leave, the remainder continuing the work of damping down the smoldering remains. Both floors of the stove shop suffered badly, as did the upper floors of two adjoining shops. The cause of the fire is not known.

Yangtszepoo Division was turned out at 1.50 p.m. in response to a telephone call and found a small quantity of cotton on fire in an exchange and wine shop at the corner of Yangtszepoo and Kwanghsin Roads. The inmates of the place had extinguished the outbreak with buckets of water before the Division arrived.

Popular Local Attorney Is Honored On Italy's Armistice Day

Mr. F. J. Schuhl, the local popular American attorney, was the recipient of a decoration yesterday, the Italian Armistice Day, awarded him by the King of Italy. The decoration was forwarded through the United States Consul-General, Mr. Edwin S. Cunningham, making Mr. Schuhl Chevalier of the Crown of Italy.

Mr. F. J. Schuhl is a member of the well known American law firm of Schuhl and Schoenfeld. Mr. Schuhl was formerly United States Commissioner and Judge of the United States Consular Court. He has been decorated by the President of China with the Chia Ho, and was only recently decorated by the King of Italy with the order of Chevalier of the Crown of Italy.

(Reuter's American Service)

Newport News, Nov. 4.—Eleven were killed and 4 injured in a collision yesterday evening between a passenger train and an omnibus at a level crossing. Some of the dead were badly mangled and only identified by clothes and jewellery. The survivors were so badly injured that they were unable to tell how the collision occurred.

Methods Of Education Changing In America

Readin', 'ritin' and 'rithmetic are still the fundamentals of education in the United States—but the school kiddies are getting them in a different way, Dr. Walter M. Marquardt, American Book company representative in the Philippine Islands, a passenger on the President Lincoln, Pacific Mail Steamship liner, indicated yesterday.

The kiddies don't get education via the slate route anymore. Tablets and pencils are used now in going intelligence tests, to determine the pupil's status in relation to other pupils and to determine what studies the pupil should be drilled more thoroughly in.

Slates were done away with for sanitary reason.

The Philippines is a rich field for book company representatives with many school texts changed every five years. The government furnishes books to the four lower grades, with students buying their own texts above the fourth grade.

Text books are being Filipinised in the Philippines, Dr. Marquardt said. The first books brought out had stories of snow and ice and polar bears as first year reading. Under the new plan the beginner reads of palms and coral strands and nipa houses, all familiar to the Philippines. Native songs even are being sung in the schools instead of American children's songs.

CHI OFFERS $50,000 FOR RELIEF FUND IN WAR ZONE

Delegates To Chengju Confab Asked To Submit Details

LOCAL DEMANDS

Public Organisations Ask All Troops To Keep Out

The insignificant sum of $50,000 was offered yesterday by Marshal Chi Hsieh-yuan, victor in the Kiangsu-Chekiang War, at a conference specially called by him to devise means for the relief of the war-stricken towns in the vicinity of Shanghai. Representatives of Quinsan, Shanghai, Sungkiang, Paoshan, Tachang, Tsingpu and Kiating attended.

In a short speech, the Kiangsu leader expressed his regret for the recent warfare, which, he said, he was reluctantly compelled to carry out in order to assert his rights as the military governor of Kiangsu. In order to relieve the stricken in the war zone, he offered the sum of $50,000 to be distributed among the sufferers, provided detailed reports on the conditions could be filed by the leading gentry of the towns.

He appointed his advisor, Liu Tse-chi, to be in charge of the relief work and the meeting was left in Liu's charge. Several representatives spoke on the deplorable conditions in the devastated areas, but very few were able to give acceptable estimates of the damages actually sustained.

The local Chinese Chambers of Commerce did not send any official delegates to the conference.

PUBLIC APPEAL

More than 80 local public bodies in Shanghai, led by the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, the Chinese Bankers' Association, the Mill Owners' Association, the Native Bankers' Guild and the Silk Guild, sent an urgent telegram to Marshal Chi yesterday, urging him to clear Shanghai and vicinity of all troops and allow none to enter from now on. A translation of the telegram follows:

"Shanghai is an international commercial center. The establishment of a military yamen and the stationing of troops here are causes for rivalry and jealousy, so we had previously asked you to abolish both in order to secure permanent peace. We were grateful that you were giving our telegram your sympathetic consideration.

"While the troops here are being despatched to other parts of the country, it was disappointing and alarming to note that fresh troops are being marched to Shanghai to fill their vacancies. There is no necessity for the existence of many soldiers in this part of the country. Shanghai is purely a commercial center. In order to avoid further strife and to insure permanent peace, it is specially requested that all troops clear out and keep out!"

Small sections of the Hupeh Brigade in Lunghua and the tenth division in Kiangwan made preparations to leave their posts yesterday. It is doubtful, however, whether or not the main column would clear out. The commander of the Hupeh troops, it is understood, has resolved to stay here himself. His friends say that he had received a telegram from Marshal Wu Pei-fu instructing him to remain here to watch for developments. Two of the boats at Kaochangmiao, chartered for his use, however, were loaded yesterday and were to sail at an early hour today for Huangchow, according to an official announcement.

MARSHAL WU BOARDS SHIP; TAKES FORCE OF 2,500 MEN

Defeated Leader Of Chihli's Armies Quits North

EN ROUTE HERE?

Weihaiwei Or Chefoo Is Destination, Rumor

(Eastern News Agency)

Tientsin, Nov. 3.—Marshal Wu Pei-fu, upon his arrival at Tangku this morning, immediately got on board the transport-vessel, Hengli, together with some 1,000 soldiers, who belong to the 3rd Chihli Division, sailing from Tangku at 8 a.m.

The destination of Marshal Wu still remains unknown but it is rumored that he will perhaps proceed either to Weihaiwei or to Chefoo.

Following upon Marshal Wu's transport-vessel, another steamer, the Changshing, loaded with some 1,500 Chihli troops, also left Tangku at 9 a.m. There still remain at Tangku twelve transport-vessels, which no more had sailed from Tangku up to 2 p.m. today. Those Chihli troops, which landed on the coast of Tangku, are estimated at about 6,000 strong, but their morale has completely gone down since the departure of Marshal Wu Pei-fu.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tientsin, Nov. 3.—The twelve transports at Tangku are one after another leaving that port in the wake of Marshal Wu's vessels.

The greater part of those Chihli troops, which landed at Tangku, have arrived in Tientsin either by rail or on foot. They have all been disarmed by the peace preservation force.

The Chihli troops from Tangku, which were disarmed by this evening, total some three thousand, while those troops, which have hitherto been disarmed at all stations here, number approximately three thousand. It is reported that those Chihli troops, stationed in the district of Chunliangcheng, also will be disarmed in a day or two.

CHIHLI TROOPS BEGIN TO FIRE AS FENG'S MEN NEAR BUT BATTLE IS AVERTED

Tuan Chi-jui Despatches Telegrams To Yangtsze Provinces Urging Authorities Not To Permit Wu Pei-fu To Land; Foreign Concessions Are Orderly, Chihli Division Loots In Chinese City

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tientsin, November 3.—Sporadic firing broke out at the Hopei, Central and East Stations today. The advance guard of General Feng Yu-hsiang's cavalry entered the Central Station from Yangtsun at noon. After quelling a slight resistance they marched along the line to the East Station with the object of disarming numerous trains containing parts of the Third and Ninth Divisions.

Emissaries previously sent to the Station failed to persuade the commander of the Chihli troops to consent to disarmament by General Feng. The Commander stated that he would only agree upon a written order from Marshal Tuan Chi-ji.

The negotiations were still proceeding when General Feng's troops approached. Firing then started and developed into a fusillade in which an Annamese guard was wounded. There was every appearance of a battle in the Station but firing ceased upon the command of the Chihli Commander.

Marshal Tuan Chi-jui has despatched telegrams to the Yangtsze provinces requesting the authorities not to allow Marshal Wu Pei-fu to land in order to avoid further difficulties

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Nov. 3.—Marshal Wu Pei-fu, before his departure from Tientsin, handed over the command to General Chang Feng-ling, who has since informed General Feng Yu-hsiang that he does not intend to fight any further.

Marshal Wu's departure leaves large forces scattered, one division of which has looted a portion of Tientsin native city.

Many troops will be roaming as outlaws until the authorities provide for their transportation homewards.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tientsin, Nov. 3.—The Shantung troops, which have declared their neutrality, since November 1, have been fighting with the Chihli troops, which have retreated from the Tientsin sector, in the neighborhood of Tsangchow.

PLEDGE ALLEGIANCE

(Eastern News Agency)

Tientsin, Nov. 3.—Immediately after Marshal Wu's departure for Tangku, General Li Yung-tieu, Commander of Martial Law, and General Yang I-teh, Director of Chihli Police force, repaired to the residence of Marshal Tuan Chi-jui and proposed to the Marshal that all the arms and ammunition they had captured at and around the stations of Tientsin would be handed over to Marshal Tuan.

It is reported that General Chin Yun-ao, Commander of the 14th Chihli Division, General Wang Wei-chong, Commander of the 23rd Chihli Division, and many other leaders of Chihli troops have expressed their allegiance to Marshal Tuan Chi-jui.

FENGTIEN APPROACHES

(Eastern News Agency)

Tientsin, Nov. 3.—The troops, attached to the 1st Shensi Division, commanded by Brigadier-General Yo Wei-chung, acting in unison with one cavalry regiment of Fengtien troops under the command of General Wu Kuang-shin, are now approaching Chunliangcheng, a town on the line between Tientsin and Tangku.

YUNNAN TO ACT

(Eastern News Agency)

Canton, Nov. 3.—General Tang Chi-yao of Yunnan has wired to Dr. Sun Yat-sen, strongly censuring the maladministration of President Tsao Kun and announcing that he, acting in co-operation with General Hsiung Ko-wu of Szechuen, will mobilise his troops towards Wuchang and Hankow.

In the meantime, General Chen Chiung-ming, whose attitude has remained ambiguous for some time past, has issued a circular telegram dated October 30, approving the actions taken by General Feng Yu-hsiang and attacking the

SUN YAT-SEN TO COME NORTH FOR GENERAL CONFAB

Canton Leader's Views Agree With Those Of Tuan And Chang

(Eastern News Agency)

Canton, Nov. 3.—It has been unofficially decided that Dr. Sun Yat-sen will leave here for the North perhaps on the 6th instant on board the Russian man-of-war, Borousky.

SUN, TUAN, CHANG AGREE

(Eastern News Agency)

Tientsin, Nov. 4.—Mr. Sun Ko, who visited Marshal Chang Tso-lin as a representative of Dr. Sun Yat-sen and who changed his itinerary on account of the recent change in the situation in the North, has arrived here from Mukden and had an interview with Marshal Tuan Chi-jui.

Interviewed today by a representative of the Eastern News Agency, Mr. Sun Ko stated that on the fundamental policy as regards the reconstruction of the Republic of China, Dr. Sun, Marshal Tuan and Marshal Chang were of the same opinion, though there was a slight difference in their views concerning particulars in this respect. He further expressed his opinion that should general principles be decided upon, it would not be difficult to effect an agreement on the details among them.

(Eastern News Agency)

Canton, Nov. 3.—Dr. Sun Yat-sen has definitely come to the conclusion to proceed within this week to the North by way of Shanghai and to attend a national conference of all veteran statesmen, which is to be held before long. It is expected that he will be accompanied by Dr. Wang Chao-ming and General Tsou Lu. In the absence of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, Mr. Hu Han-min will officiate as Generalissimo while General Tan Yen-wai will take charge of affairs in connection with the expedition against the North.

(Eastern News Agency)

Canton, Nov. 3.—The districts of Tungwong and Humen have been captured by General Chen Chiung-ming's troops. Dr. Sun Yat-sen ordered the Yunnan mercenaries and other Government troops to mobilise without delay against General Chen's forces. Accordingly, Dr. Sun's troops are proceeding towards the district of the East River one after another.

attitude of President Tsao Kun and Marshal Wu Pei-fu.

The fact remains, however, that General Chen Chiung-ming has no intention to come to terms with Dr. Sun Yat-sen and, it is understood, will invade Fukien. If General Chen should actually carry out his invasion of Fukien, the result will be that he has effected an alliance with Dr. Sun Yat-sen indirectly.

In the above case, the only question that remains to be settled is what attitude General Lin Hu will take towards Dr. Sun. Since his return to Canton from Shaokwan, Dr. Sun has been daily conferring at the General-Headquarters here with all leaders of the Canton Government including Mr. Hu Han-min, Dr. Wang Chao-ming and Mr. Liao Chung-kai as to what steps he should take in future.

In this connection, it is learned that Dr. Sun is endeavoring to bring about a thorough understanding among Marshal Tuan, Marshal Chang and General Feng Yu-hsiang.

TSAO'S RESIGNATION
(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Nov. 3 (delayed in transmission).—President Tsao Kun is issuing a circular telegram announcing his resignation, regretting his inability to maintain peace and order and hoping that his successor will be more successful. He handed over the seals and official documents to the Cabinet this afternoon.

The Cabinet will meet tomorrow and declare itself the governing body in the absence of the President.

Communications eastward have been cut, the International train to Tientsin reached Yangtsun where apparently it is held up by a battle ahead.

PARLIAMENTARIANS MEET
(Eastern News Agency)

Tientsin, November 3.—Upward of 40 M.P.'s, now in Tientsin, last night held a meeting at the residence of Mr. Yin Chuan and discussed about measures to be taken in future.

Mr. Chiao Yi-tang asserted that all the M.P.'s who were elected by bribery should be eliminated so that Parliament might be maintained by honestly elected M.P.'s while Mr. Lin Chang-min suggested that inasmuch the old Constitution and the old Parliament were incompatible with the tendency of the popular will, they should be fundamentally reformed, considering that the recent disturbances are a revolution, pure and simple. But the former's assertion was approved by the majority.

In case, however, the old Parliament is maintained and a legal President elected, it follows, according to the M.P.'s who were present at the meeting in question, that Parliament will clash with Marshal Tuan Chi-jui, who has no legal foundation whatever, thereby rendering it very difficult to save the present situation.

"Election Year" Bugaboo Scared Away In U.S.A.

The bugaboo of "election year" and its effect on business in the United States was nearly eliminated this year, according to Mr. James H. Smiley, new assistant trade commissioner in Shanghai, who arrived on the President Lincoln, Pacific Mail Steamship company's liner, yesterday from the United States.

Mr. Smiley is relieving Mr. J. H. Nelson who has returned to the United States. He will assist Mr. G. C. Howard, local trade commissioner.

Mr. Smiley reported American business in a fairly normal condition.

Mr. Smiley has been in Boston, Philadelphia and San Francisco for the last three years. He is accompanied to Shanghai by Mrs. Smiley.

Tientsin Full Of Rumors; Truth Is Deeply Hidden

Confusion Reigns In Early Hours Following Entrance Of Wu Pei-fu With His Forces

BY LAWRENCE IMPEY
(China Press Correspondence)

Tientsin, Nov. 1.—The first twenty-four hours after the arrival of Marshal Wu Pei-fu in Tientsin revealed nothing of importance for the uninitiated, the air being so full of rumors that it was impossible to distinguish the true from the false. As soon as we pulled into Tientsin Central station the Generalissimo went into private conference with General Yang I-teh, the Chief of Police, and presumably also with Tsao Jui, whose motor car was at the platform. The Waichiaopu staff who were on the train slipped away on one mission or another, some to sound the good faith of important Chinese politicians in and out of the Concessions, some to pay calls on the Marshal's behalf at the various Consulates, and others simply vanishing into thin air with money and a motor car bound for destinations unknown.

No one seemed to know the exact situation in Peking, Mukden or the south, so that until the troops that were expected from Nanking should arrive it was obvious that there would be no war, unless indeed General Feng Yu-hsiang should choose to attack with the mixed force composed of the Shensi divisions and as many of his own as could be spared from policing Peking. The railway between Tientsin and Peking having been twice torn up in the neighborhood of Langfang and twice repaired, the authorities decided to endeavor to run an Allied train, and accordingly your correspondent boarded her on the morning of the 27th as she passed through Tientsin Central. The run up was slow but not particularly eventful, the troops pushed forward by Marshal Wu being posted at Yangtsun, with their trenches lining the bank of the river, while the outposts of the Shensi troops had dug themselves in around Langfang and were busily engaged in improving their defenses as we passed through their lines. The train reached Peking after a trip of nine hours, and the writer rushed around to pick up the history of the past few days in the brief couple of hours before the special was due to start back.

QUIET AND ORDERLY

In credit to General Feng his coup seems to have been effected in the most quiet and orderly manner imaginable, for the history of the seizure of the city was reported to be as follows. His Staff Major returned to the city a few days prior to the event and alleged that he was sent back to bring up warm clothing and funds, but in reality he was busy making all the necessary arrangements with those inside the wall who were to open the gates at the critical moment. Having successfully negotiated his ends the small party of troops with which he was travelling departed about half a day's march and then called a halt, remaining there for some twenty-four hours. At the end of this time notice was given of the advance of Feng's main body, whereupon the Major with his advance guard turned swiftly back and about three o'clock at night was admitted by the North Gate of the Tartar City. Pickets of troops were placed in position with the utmost rapidity, and when the inhabitants of the city emerged from their dwellings in the early morning of the 23rd it was to find cordons of soldiers on all the streets keeping the people from congregating and maintaining an especial guard over the various Ministries and Governmental buildings.

No disorder of any kind was visible and there was very little panic shown after the first few moments of alarm, while when the Allied train reached the city on the evening of the 27th the place seemed quieter and more effectively controlled than is usually the case. The Presidential Palace was surrounded by troops and some of these stated that Tsao Kun was still inside with a number of his bodyguard, declining to permit them to be disarmed or to come out to parley, though General Feng and other officials have been admitted to confer with him on several occasions. General Feng Yu-hsiang himself had located his headquarters at the Pei-Yuan outside the An Ting Men, and here he held several important conferences with military and political dignitaries during the 26th and 27th.

THEORIES AND RUMORS

Dr. W. W. Yen was invited to continue in office and apparently consented to do so pending more permanent arrangements, though the Cabinet list that was presented to President Tsao for approval on the afternoon of the 26th states Dr. C. T. Wang as Premier, acting concurrently as Minister of Foreign Affairs. At the same time it is reported that General Feng has sent a telegram to the Marshal at Tientsin stating that he has no intention of fighting him and asking him to come to Peking to join a conference to be held on the situation. This may quite possibly be authentic, and if so Wu Pei-fu will perhaps be well advised to accept the opportunity it affords, for he cannot at best have more than a fighting chance of defeating Feng in open battle and then returning to the north to continue his struggle with Chang Tso-lin. No one seems quite certain as to what has become of that important factor General Li Ching-lin, who was originally opposite the Chihli Third Army north of Jehol, for one account credits him with having returned to Mukden to oust his Generalissimo, another states that he is remaining in Jehol watching events and commanding the passes above Peking, while a third report from Japanese sources places him as marching across country to cut the Peking-Mukden line in the vicinity of Tongshan or Lanchow, a suggestion which seems to the writer the more probable as one which would indicate a more serious threat to the existence of Marshal Wu Pei-fu's forces at Shanhaikwan and Chinwangtao.

There has undoubtedly been considerable trouble amongst General Feng's other allies, the Shensi divisions, and he is to be complimented on having managed to keep them out of Peking, but on the other hand they are good fighters and seem to have occupied the Langfang sector quite satisfactorily, though a large bribe would very likely induce them to change sides once more. Several mixed brigades from Honan are reported as coming up the Peking-Hankow line to join Marshal Wu, but it is stated that some of Governor Yen Hsi-shan's troops are holding the line and will not permit them to pass, though this news must be regarded with reserve until confirmation is received. At any rate Feng holds Changsintien and could retire behind the Yung Ting Ho and destroy the bridges if necessary, while the whole of the country between there and Tientsin is still more or less flooded and would not permit of the movement of any large body of troops.

RELIES ON SUPPORT

Judging from the attitude on Marshal Wu Pei-fu's own train he is relying mainly on this support from the south through Paotingfu and Pingsui, and in all probability Marshal Chu would be willing to rush troops up to his aid as soon as possible. Therefore it depends on how quickly General Feng will strike if he decides to assume the offensive and supposing that his peace offers are rejected. If the Shensi divisions are all reliable he can count on somewhere between fifty and seventy thousand men including his own 11th Division, and this force would be immeasurably superior to anything that could be gathered around Tientsin inside a month. Added to this is the fact that Wu is pressed for time in regard to his position on the northern front, unless as is rumored he intends to withdraw slowly to the Lanchowfu defense line, evacuating both Shanhaikwan and Tongshan.

Therefore it may be presumed that he will act quickly one way or the other, for he has always proved to be a man of decision, and by the time this account is printed the die may already have been cast. It is indeed a pity that such men of ability as Chang Tso-lin and Wu Pei-fu cannot find some common ground for agreement, for a combination of the political skill of the first and the military genius of the second would go far towards effecting the much talked about re-unification of China; while all thinking men cannot but be sorry to see the Marshal's undoubted personal skill and bravery wasted in efforts to bolster up the fortunes of such intriguers as are the Tsao family, one and all.

Pacific Shipping Lines Hit By War

States are on the whole cheaper than they are in the West, and that for a number of reasons. For one thing the west is much more mountainous, and grades are much heavier. On a trip between New York and Chicago for instance you may see a freight train 150 cars in length. You won't see anything like that in the Western country. The power required on a grade will probably be the same for 70 cars as it would be for a train of 150 cars on a level. Another consideration which the Interstate Commerce takes into account when fixing rates is the competition. There is more competition in the East."

WATER CARRIAGE

"Well, couldn't the interior part of the country be reached by the cheaper water transport somehow", asked the interviewer.

"Yes," replied Mr. Wilson, "we've had enquiries on that point recently. Take for instance the large service up the Mississipi. Goods from China, for example, could be transhipped at San Francisco for water carriage to New Orleans, loaded on the barge service there and sent up to Chicago even, if there was no no great hurry, at a cheaper rate than they could be sent by rail across the country. To such a point as St. Louis, for instance, this service by way of the barge route is a very handy one indeed.

"But, how about points further removed from water contact?"

"Well it somwhat depends on the commodity. We have, the Interstate tariffs on file here and are always glad to be of assistance working out for them the most economical route to ship by."

Much Romance Brought To Shanghai On Vessels

Much romance sailed into Shanghai yesterday on the incoming vessels from the United States.

The Pacific Mail Steamship company's President Lincoln brought Mr. and Mrs. Ansel M. Elizalde of Manila, returning to the Philippine Islands after an extended honeymoon through California. Mr. Elizalde is of the wealthy Elizalde family of Manila, sugar manufacturers. Mrs. Elizalde was Miss Marie Spreckles, of the Spreckles family of California. The couple met in Manila more than a year ago when Miss Spreckles visited there. Part of their honeymoon was spent on the Spreckles yacht, cruising in California waters.

The President Lincoln also brought Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Starkweather, of Los Angeles, on an extended honeymoon trip through the Far East and Europe. They are expecting to be guests of Siam royalty, Mrs. Starkweather having met the Prince several years ago in other travels.

The President Adams, Dollar Steamship company round-the-world liner, brought Mr. and Mrs. A. Zellerbach of San Francisco, on a honeymoon trip around the world. Mr. Zellerbach has been living in Honolulu where he was associated with the Zellerbach Paper company.

Miss Katheryn Schmedeman, Madison, Wisconsin, is enroute to Singapore to become the bride of Mr. Carl Hynd of the International Banking Corporation. Mrs. A. G. Schmedeman, her mother, is accompanying. Mrs. Schmedeman is the wife of the former American minister to Norway under President Wilson's administration.

Siangtan, Hunan, Has Serious Fire

(Special Correspondence)

Siangtan, Hunan Province, October 29.—A serious fire broke out in this city about ten o'clock last night and burned fifteen or eighteen houses to the ground. The fire raged for three or four hours before it was gotten under control, and it might have been most disasterous had it not been that there was no wind to fan the flames. The local fire brigades did excellent work with their crude equipment and did much to prevent a wide spreading of the conflagration. Excellent order was maintained among the crowds of people who were trying to get a good view of the fight.

The Hsien Magistrate not only sent an adequate force of armed soldiers to maintain order, but he went to the scene in person to see that these soldiers performed their duty. The cause of the fire is said to have been the ignition of a tin of kerosine in the second floor of one of the buildings. One large building today stands unharmed in the middle of the burned area, bearing good testimony as to the benefit of adequate fire-walls. The section of the city which was burned is in the 16th ward along the River street.

THIRD MEMBER OF GUN-RUNNING GANG IS JAILED

Frederick Firmin, Involved With Attfields, Caught By London Police

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 3.—Frederick Corley Firmin, one of the four persons concerned in the alleged gun-running case, was arrested today and conveyed to prison, making three men detained indeterminately.

Note:—Firmin, with James Attfield and his son Cecil Attfield and Charles Philip Hinman, appeared before the King's Bench on October 14 in a case in which the Crown sought to recover heavy penalties under the Customs Acts for attempting to export machine-guns. The jury found in favor of James Attfield. The others pleaded guilty. The jury found against Cecil Attfield in £26,076 and against Firmin and Hinman in £15,960 each. As neither was able to pay the enormous penalties imposed, Cecil Attfield and Hinman were imprisoned, virtually for life. Lord Darling refused to agree to immediate execution of Firmin's penalty.

appear to be suffering seems to be a highly communicable form of a streptococcic infection of the throat. In view of this a strict quarantine will be maintained for the remainder of the present week. Classes for students boarding in the school are being conducted on a half-time basis and students on the outside desiring their books for home study are supplied on application of the parents at the school office in the main building.

Several laboratory tests were made yesterday and no further evidence was available showing that the outbreak is diphtheria. Several other suspicious cases of a milder form were isolated in the school infirmary on Monday but no evidence is available showing that these cases are diphtheritic.

A notice mailed out to parents of pupils of the School yesterday by Prof. Boynton read as follows: "On Saturday, November 1, the Matron, Mrs. Sarah E. Smith, and five of the girls in the boarding department of the American School came down with fever and sore throat. Some of the cases resembled diphtheria. Cultures were taken and in three cases the diphtheria anti-toxin was administered immediately. One of the cultures, grown overnight, proved to be diphtheria and it is thought that the other cases are probably due to the same infection. Larger doses of anti-toxin were given Sunday and all cases have been sent to the Isolation Hospital. No new cases have developed up to Sunday night and the students within the school and old cases are improving.

San Francisco papers to hand today give details of the effects of the typhoon which caught the Pacific Mail liner President Lincoln in its vortex on its last trip across the Pacific to America, arriving at San Francisco on October 4 with a number of her plates damaged, one life boat swept away, and leaking in the forepeak and No. 2 hold. The blow was one of the most terrific of the year, Captain H. L. Jones, commander of the President Lincoln, reported, and considerable damage was done to deck equipment while the big ship was held in the grip of the wind. The President Lincoln was between Shanghai and Kobe when the twister was encountered, and being on the rim of the typhoon caught the full force of the blow. Captain Jones remained on the bridge from the time the Lincoln struck the typhoon until it passed.

Nantungchow Holds Chrysanthemum Show

(China Press Correspondence)

Nantungchow, Nov. 1.—The Annual Chrysanthemum Show opened yesterday in the Middle Park, and will continue three days. The Agricultural College is conducting the show, and has on display over one hundred fine varieties of chrysanthemums. Various dealers have brought in flowers until the park is filled with color.

In addition to the Flower Show, the Agricultural College is exhibiting cotton of several varieties, and has charted the results of crossing, selecting, and experimenting. The President of the College, Mr. Kwauk, is a graduate of Cornell, and five other members of the Faculty have studied abroad.

American cotton requires a longer season for development than Chinese cotton which can usually be picked before the rainy season. For this reason the college is conducting experiments with different species of Chinese cotton as being more adapted to this particular region, and are making a conspicuous success. Improved seeds have been distributed to the farmers of the district, and the cotton crop this year is excellent.

Norma Talmadge, Moved To Tears By 'Beau Brummel'

When a screen player—and who is more sophisticated than a film actor or actress accustomed to throw on the spigot and produce tears or laughter at the will of the director—when a screen player is moved to tears and admiration at a picture, then there is something extraordinary brewing.

Which is by way of introducing the fact that Norma Talmadge did just that at a preview of "Beau Brummel," the screen adaptation of Clyde Fitch's play starring John Barrymore, which is to be shown at the Appolo Theater, starting Sunday.

"Beau Brummel," a Warner Brothers' Classic of the Screen, is the complete history of the rise, fall, madness and death of the extraordinary man who rose from penniless obscurity, became the friends of princes, and clung for years to the position of Europe's dictator of fashion. He was a man of charm and wit and brains, after whose favor countless women sighed and intrigued.

In the supporting cast are Mary Astor, Carmel Myers, Alec Francis, Irene Rich, Willard Louis and others.

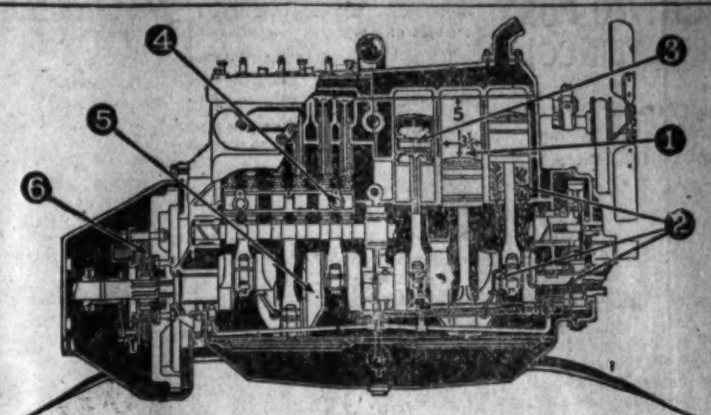
THE FAMOUS JEWETT SIX ENGINE — PAIGE BUILT



THE SECRET OF POWER

HEREWITH is displayed the secret of the enormous power of the Jewett six-cylinder motor car. It is worthy of careful consideration. Ponder well on this exceptional engine. The engine that has been first in hundreds of hill-climbing events. The engine that accelerates on top gear from 5 to 25 miles an hour in 7 seconds. The engine that is the smoothest to start and the first to get away. 110,000 Jewett motor cars with this engine have proved its worth.

1. Extraordinary cylinder construction produce amazing power. The 3¼-inch bore and 5-inch stroke, give the Jewett engine a positive piston displacement of 249 cubic inches. Piston displacement determines power. Just contemplate what this means for a motor car of even greater cost than the Jewett.

2. Forced pressure oiling: The Jewett Six has a high pressure, hollow crankshaft system that forces two gallons of oil per minute through all main and connecting rod bearings. Whether driving at top or low speed, oil is continuously forced through at 20 to 40 pounds pressure.

3. Extra large wrist pins: Wrist pins are hidden, but vital to an engine's operation. The power blow of each explosion is transmitted through the wrist pin to each piston. Jewett wrist pins are approximately twice the size in diameter of the wrist pins of other cars in the same class. The extra strength of Jewett's wrist pins contributes to long motor life.

4. Oil-bathed valve-gear: The oil sprayed by the high pressure system reaches the crankshaft and push rods of the Jewett valve assembly—quiet operation the result. Valve springs are made of expensive electric furnace vanadium steel of great tensile strength. The entire valve assembly is easily accessible.

5. Eighty-three pound crankshaft: A heavy shaft—much heavier than is used in comparable cars. Jewett engineering standards require a crankshaft material that tests to an elastic limit of 70,000 pounds per square inch. Jewett's crankshaft compares point by point with those in far more costly cars.

6. Easy acting clutch: With the new Paige-type clutch, however fast you lift your foot, you can neither stall the engine nor jerk the car. The reason? A light-weight driven clutch member, weighing less than 3½ pounds, has one-third the usual weight, and with one-third the momentum, quickly adjusts itself to speed changes. It engages smoothly and releases under the gentlest foot pressure.

Liverpool Express Derailed; 10 Killed, Many Are Injured

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 4.—Twelve were killed and 33 injured in the Lytham disaster. Commander Charles Greame most courageously insisted upon other sufferers being attended to before himself.

The scene of the catastrophe was appalling. Bloodstained limbs could be seen beneath the carriages, while the cries of the injured were most distressing. Three of the injured taken to hospital are in a serious condition.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 3.—Twelve persons have been killed and many injured through the derailment of the engine of the Liverpool Blackpool express between Wrea Green and Lytham.

The engine dashed into a signal box which was completely turned round.

According to a Liverpool message, the Lancashire Railway disaster was due to a tire coming off the front wheel of the engine travelling at fifty miles an hour.

(Reuter's Service)

London, November 4.—The latest reports of the train smash indicate difficulty in identifying the bodies. The night was very dark though thousands of helpers and hundreds of motorcars rushed to the disaster.

Those killed include the driver, whose body took some time to find, and Captain Charles Greame, the commander of the White Star liner, Bradic.

Many were terribly injured. Many prominent Lancashire businessmen are involved. One man was decapitated and another was obliged to have a leg amputated. The signal box was smashed to smithereens. The signalman was hurled into a brook below and escaped.

Philippines Take Steps To Protect Nearby Pearl Beds

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, Oct. 22.—The insular government has taken steps to protect the Philippine pearl beds and the pearling industry by ordering closed certain portions of the pearl fishing field around Mindanao and Sulu during alternate periods ranging from three to five years.

This action is said to be preliminary to a thorough regulation of the pearling industry which the Government contemplates undertaking after a careful and extensive survey of all the pearl beds in Philippine waters.

At present the Government experts know little of the pearl resources, except the fields in the vicinity of Sulu. It is however believed that pearl beds extend as far north as Culion Island along the coast of Palawan Island and also around the coast of northern Mindanao.

The regulation of the industry by fixing open and closed seasons for fishing in various localities is urged by those engaged in the pearl fishing business on account of fears that the present beds in the Sulu seas may become exhausted in the near future.

American Women's Club Welcomes Dr. A. W. Fearn

Miss Ruth Benedict Is Speaker At General Meeting; Discusses Equal Rights Amendment In U. S.

An unusually large gathering was present in the rooms of the American Women's Club yesterday afternoon for the general meeting which was also a welcome home to Dr. Anne Walker Fearn, club president, who has been in the States for several months and who returned yesterday on the "President Adams." Dr. Fearn was presented with a huge basket of chrysanthemums by the club.

The Civic Department had charge of the program for the afternoon and in view of the occasion—Election Day at home—the speaker of the afternoon, Miss Ruth Benedict, gave an interesting and informative talk on the proposed Equal Rights Amendment now before the attention of Congress.

Mrs. Pritchard, of Los Angeles, who is on a trip around the world, gave a short talk describing the growth and activities of the Friday Morning Club of Los Angeles, which has grown from a small organization into one of the largest and most influential women's clubs in the city. It has already outgrown the magnificent $450,000 building which it erected for its headquarters a few years ago and is seeking for new worlds to conquer in Los Angeles.

NO PLACE LIKE SHANGHAI

Dr. Fearn, who is the picture of health, has returned home with the feeling that there is no place like Shanghai. "America is wonderful," she said, "but I am glad to be back home!" Dr. Fearn's point of view is refreshing for Americans rarely adopt China and loyally regard it as their home despite their years of residence here, their ties and their social and business interests.

Miss A. Viola Smith, chairman of the Civic Department, presented Miss Benedict to the meeting, and gave a short explanation of why she considered the Equal Rights Amendment of sufficient interest to discuss it here in China, where American women feel themselves far removed from home politics and the annoying suggestion of the inferiority complex which is so agitating women at home now, especially those who have made a study of the discriminations that exist in the legislation of the United States against women.

Miss Benedict, in her paper, took the stand that although we may be jogging along comfortably in China so long as we enjoy extraterritorial rights legislation affecting women in the States is a matter of concern to us.

The Equal Rights Bill was introduced in the U. S. Senate on Dec. 10, 1923 by Senator Curtis of Kansas, and in the house on Dec. 13 by Representative Anthony of Kansas. It reads: "Men and women shall have equal rights throughout the United States and every place subject to its jurisdiction."

The Bill has been sponsored by the Women's Party which in 1913 was organized as a temporary association to obtain nation-wide suffrage for women which was won by the ratification of the National Suffrage Amendment in 1920. In 1921 the party was reorganized on a permanent basis with the object of removing all forms of the subjection of women and the immediate object of removing all discriminations in the law.

"It may never have occurred to you that women are treated any differently from men," said Miss Benedict, "but if you examine the subject you will find that Wisconsin is the only state which has passed an Equal Rights bill and that in Alabama mothers are not equal guardians of their children. Married women are discriminated against in property and inheritance rights and grounds for divorce are not equal for men and women."

Miss Benedict named some of the states where notable discriminations exist. The list is somewhat shocking to people who have heretofore believed that the United States is the home of the free and the land of the brave, and above all, a paradise for women.

For instance: In Arkansas, inheritance laws discriminate against women; in Delaware, fathers can will away children from mothers; in Florida, the father controls the services and earnings of children; in Georgia, the earnings of a married woman belong to her husband. Louisiana and Maryland are pretty big offenders. In the former state mothers are not equal guardians of their children; married women are discriminated against in property rights; married women are classed with children and the insane as unable to contract on their own responsibility. In Maryland, mothers also, are not equal guardians of their children; fathers can will away children from the mothers; the services and frequently the earnings of a married woman belong to her husband; women may not hold various public offices; divorce laws are unequal.

ANSWER OBJECTIONS

There have been numerous objections raised against the bill but the Women's Party has answered most of these. Most important, perhaps, is the objection that the Equal Rights Amendment will tend to defeat the purposes of real equality and may inflict hardships and inequalities instead.

With regard to another objection that "existing inequalities in the law affecting men and women as such are so complicated in character that only specific legislation can reach them effectively", the national amendment would override all existing laws discriminating against women, no matter how complicated in character, and would prevent discriminatory laws from being enacted by any state of the land, and all national and state legislation must conform to it," says the Women's Party.

Leonard Hartigan To Succeed His Father

Mr. Leonard Hartigan, former Shanghai attorney, has succeeded his father, the late General Thomas L. Hartigan, as head of the Hartigan and Welch law firm of Manila, according to advices to Shanghai yesterday. General Hartigan died the middle of last month after a lingering illness during which time another son, Ray, submitted to a blood transfusion to give strength to his father. Part of the practice taken over by Mr. Hartigan is general attorneyship of the Manila Hotel, the Manila Railroad and several other governmental institutions. Mr. Hartigan left Shanghai several months to assist his father in his law practice. Mrs. Hartigan and children went to Manila only a few weeks ago.

Miss Roberti In Shanghai Champions At The Carlton

No one could accuse Mr. Louis Ladow of being ungenerous in placing before the public turns worth while. Shanghai has long realised this, which is why his splendid Ball Room held a capacity crowd last Saturday night in spite of mammoth counter-attractions.

In the face of such flattery, little wonder that the ballet of looks, personality and voice, did themselves justice. Miss Lida Roberti, the young lady who immediately became a success with the drunken Sailor dance, is sure to get the warm hand of appreciation in the new interpretation of the running of the Shanghai Champions, which fills the bill tonight, and it is pleasing to know that Miss Lida will carry the popular Carlton Livery on Mr. Ladow's elect for the big race.

This is the first time in the history of Shanghai that a lady rider has been allowed to compete in this great event, and should the Carlton choice prove the goods, the Jockey will be escorted past the post, to the latest hit entitled "Shanghai Jockey Champs." This will be sung by Mr. Pete Harman, accompanied by the Champion Lenzen Carlton Orchestra. The song was written by Arthur D. Siles, and set to music by M. Bakaleinikoff, who supplied a recent winner with the "Carlton Girl."

Sports who miss this chance of seeing their favorites in full colors competing for honors will regret it. Every well known owner and jockey will be represented, and those who miss picking the winner today, will be given another chance tonight at the Carlton.

ARMS-RUNNING SAILING SHIP HITS MORE HARD GOING

Chinese Maritime Customs Announces Confiscation Of "W. H. Talbot"

New difficulties were found for the sailing vessel "W. H. Talbot," ill-fated ship, yesterday.

The vessel first ran on to Shanghai shoals when Chinese customs officials found several thousand dollars worth of arms and ammunitions aboard as she sailed in Shanghai harbor. That was the fourth of July.

Then Leong Kow petitioned for money alleged due him because of supplies furnished.

October 28, Judge Milton D. Purdy, United States Court, ordered the sale of the Talbot. Mr. Thurston R. Porter, United States Marshal for China, accordingly advertised the vessel for sale on November 10 in THE CHINA PRESS.

Yesterday morning Mr. Porter was notified that the Chinese Maritime Customs served notice of the confiscation of the vessel.

Mr. Edwin S. Cunningham, American Consul General, protested this attempted confiscation and the papers in the case have been sent to Peking for settlement by the United States Minister and the foreign office of the Chinese government.

The sale will take place as announced at the court at 11 o'clock the morning of November 10 but Mr. Porter yesterday said he wished to inform all bidders that if any of them buy the vessel it may be detained in Shanghai by the Superintendent of Customs until Peking rules on the point at issue, unless the purchaser files a bond binding himself to pay the full value of the ship should the ultimate decision be given against them.

B. W. A.

The Music Department of the British Women's Association arranged a delightful program of songs and piano solos yesterday afternoon, and the entertainment, despite the coincidence of the autumn races, was unusually well attended.

The program opened with the "Scherzo in B minor" of Chopin played by Mrs. Sykes, who rendered it with characteristic brilliance. There followed two songs by Grieg, "The First Meeting" and "The First Primrose," both of which Miss Shephard sang delightfully. Mr. Davies then gave "The Two Grenadiers" and a lovely encore. His voice is rich and fluid and his diction perfect, so that his songs were lovely to listen to.

Mr. Dumbarton, well-known in Shanghai, was also on the program and his rendering of Schubert's "Serenade" was so well done he responded with encores. Mrs. Sykes, in playing Brahms' "Rhapsody in G Minor" outdid her previous performance here and made one wish to hear much more of her playing. Her interpretation is splendid and her feeling throughout so sympathetic that she conveys the soul and spirit of the music to her audience.

Mrs. Muriel, who is leaving for Hankow today for some time, possibly permanently, gave as her farewell offerings Homer's "Requiem" and Hahn's "Invictus." Mrs. Muriel was in especially good voice yesterday and those who heard her regretted more than a little that she will not be heard in Shanghai again for some time. Mr. Muriel, who also sings charmingly, will be missed likewise for he has enlivened many a B.W.A. musical program.

The program was concluded by Mr. Butt, who sang three songs all compositions of his wife, Dorothy Gandy. They were "Beyond the Hill," "Joy and Sorrow," and "The Underland." Mr. R. C. Young who accompanied the singers at the piano played very well.

Major Philippine Parties Agreed On Independence Urge

Minority Leader Of House Of Representatives Expresses Optimistic Opinion

The Fairfield bill, granting complete independence to the Philippines within 20 years, and providing Philippine autonomy in the meantime, meets the approval of the minority political party of the Philippines, Mr. Claro M. Recto, minority leader in the house of representatives of the Philippines legislature, a passenger on the President Lincoln, Pacific Mail Steamship company liner, indicated yesterday.

The Fairfield bill was the result of conferences between Senators Quezon and Osmena and legislators at Washington.

Mr. Recto, like Mr. Quezon and Mr. Osmena, who passed through Shanghai last month, is optimistic over the prospects for the Philippines in the campaign to break away from the United States.

If the Republicans win, Mr. Recto is nearly certain that the Fairfield bill will be passed, permitting a Filipino governor, elected by the Philippines, with an American commissioner, with only supervision powers and no dictorial powers for 20 years and then complete independence.

If Mr. John Davis, Democrat, or Mr. Robert LaFollette, Independent, are elected, complete and immediate independence is the prospect, Mr. Recto said.

Mr. Recto went to the United States with the independence mission more than six months ago.

Addition Of Sugar The Secret Of Obtaining Best Results In Freezing Eggs

Eggs and Egg Products in Various Forms Important and Growing Features Of China's Export Trade

BY GEO. W. MISSEMER

An American statistician some years ago in discussing economic questions from the point of view that the relative wealth of the multimillionaires was greatly exaggerated, pointed out that there wasn't any man in the United States rich enough to buy all the hens in the country and the eggs that they produce in a single week. Similarly the average person probably does not realise the fairly important position which the humble egg plays in the export trade of China, despite the fact that the breeding of fowls, like most other things, is on a primitive scale.

The art of artificial incubation has, however, been practiced in China for centuries. Instead of using automatic thermometers and self-acting thermostats the Chinese attendant judges the heat of the eggs by placing it against the membrane of one of his eye-balls, and a very close approximation to the results obtained from the relatively expensive imported automatic incubators is attained in this way. The heat for the incubation is usually obtained from clay ovens, but in parts of China where labor is cheap and fuel is relatively expensive it is not unknown for a Chinese coolie to curl himself around the eggs and act the part of a hen.

From some of the southern ports of China, from which eggs are exported to points further south for breeding purposes—where, of course, the temperature is always near the hatching point, the eggs are frequently packed in dung, lime or other heat-forming materials, with the express purpose of having them hatch on the way, and it is not at all uncommon for such cargoes, which come on board as eggs, to arrive at their destination as "peeps."

Reverting to the more important aspect of the export trade in Chinese eggs, it is to be noted that despite the great development that there has been in recent years in producing dried yolk and albumen frozen eggs, the export of fresh (including preserved) eggs still is a very important item, the yearly total from China amounting to about twelve million taels. Japan takes about three-quarters of the total export. To Great Britain about a million taels' worth of eggs are sent yearly, and to France about half as many, mostly in cold storage.

JAPANESE GET FIRST PICK

The collection and exporting of eggs from Shanghai to Japan is an industry which is naturally exclusively in Japanese hands. It has many distinctive features. For the short trip across to Japan the Japanese have found that it does not pay to use the ordinary collapsible cardboard fillers which are almost indispensable in the internal egg trade of America. Instead, the Japanese merely use empty kerosene tins, fill the interstices between the eggs with rice hulls, and then bind the cases with a very liberal supply of soft rope, this method supplying a very effective cushion. The Japanese exporters get most of their supplies of eggs from the district around Shanghai. The Chinese countrymen bring their eggs to Shanghai in small boats on the hundreds of small streams which converge towards this Settlement and along the more important of these the Japanese dealers have erected egg collecting warehouses. Every small Chinese boat that passes is "held up" here and the Japanese thus get first pick, taking out all the large sized ones. The boat then comes on to Shanghai with the smaller and inferior ones.

The freezing of eggs has in recent years assumed great prominence in China, although several years ago the industry received quite a set-back when America put into effect the greatly increased customs duties. The recently issued export Customs statistics show, however, that last year the industry had again attained a commanding position, the export reaching the handsome total of more than five and three quarter million taels, almost four times what it was two years previously. This industry has been established in only three places in China, namely Shanghai (where the principal American factories are located), at Nanking (the most important, the large plants of the British International Export Co. being located there) and Hankow. Although the export to America last year was over a million taels, about four times what it was in the two preceding years, the export to Great Britain is the important feature in the trade at present, last year's total to that country exceeding in value four million taels.

FREEZING PROCESS PERFECTED

The freezing process has now been brought to almost perfection, following long years of experimentation. For many years the egg freezing people had this difficulty to contend with: If they froze the egg products very heavily it was found when the batter was thawed that it had changed in character so that instead of being in a condition resembling the original it had become a sort of a thick jelly with rivulets of a separated watery substance. On the other hand if they froze the batter (the eggs being first broken and stirred into a mixture of white and yolk) just a few degress below the freezing point it was found that the batter slowly deteriorated in a number of ways, losing flavor, and "went bad," or as a chemist would prefer to say, "suffered basteriological decomposition."

Numerous experiments made with a view to evolving a process by which the egg mixture could be frozen to a low temperature, say to zero Fahrenheit, and still preserve the orginal condition when it was thawed, resulted in the discovery that the addition of sugar or saccharine to the mixture was the solution of the problem. Frozen egg products naturally divide themselves into three categories, namely white alone, yolk alone, and a mixture of white and yolk. The addition of sugar is only practiced when yolk alone or mixed with white is frozen, as it has been found that the white, no matter to what degree it may be frozen, always thaws to its original condition.

When treating a batter containing a mixture of yolk and white or yolk alone, from five to twenty-five percent of granulated cane sugar is added, the proportion being somewhat dependent on the proportion of yolk in the mixture the higher proportion being used when yolks alone are frozen.

Chemists have evolved the theory that the change in the characteristics of yolk when frozen is that the protein in the yolk becomes "agglutinated," and changed in structure from "colloidal" to "precipitated." An interesting fact to note in connection with the composition of eggs is that the "white" is more than eighty percent water, the balance being albumen. The percentage of water in the yolk is very much less, an average proportion of ingredients being six parts fat, three parts protein and nine parts water.

DRIED EGG ALBUMEN AND YOLK

The older preserving process of treating eggs by dessication still holds its own, the exports of these products remaining practically unchanged, around twelve million taels annually. Curiously enough the export of these products increased by about two million taels to America last year as compared with the previous year, whereas the export to Great Britain last year decreased by about the same figure. Hankow and Shanghai factories each produce between four and five million taels worth of albumen and yolk yearly. The dried albumen powder finds its greatest use in the photographic industry; the dried yolk is largely used for tanning purposes.

America's Re-Exports Last Year Show Great Increase

Totals Exceeded Only By The Abnormal Prosperity Of War Years

Foreign merchandise re-exported from the United States in the fiscal year just ended exceeds in value that of any year since 1921 and is more than double in value that of any year preceding the war. It totaled, says the Trade Record of The National City Bank of New York, $87,589,000 in the fiscal year 1924 against $70,051,000 in 1923 and an average of about $35,000,000 a year prior to the World War.

Whether it is a persistence of the "habit" which the adjacent countries formed during the war of drawing their supplies direct from the United States instead of bringing them across the ocean can hardly be determined, says the Trade Record; it is a fact that our re-exports of foreign merchandise to our nearby neighbors did tremendously increase during the war and that a large share of this increase in our foreign exports trade still remains in the hands of our importers and exporters. Whether it is due to the opening of the Panama Canal, which gives us a new and shorter route to the countries fronting on the Pacific, is also an open question, but it is a fact that the foreign merchandise exported to the South American countries fronting on the Pacific in the latest year for which figures are available was nearly a million dollars against only $163,000 in the year preceding the opening of the canal, and in the latest year available the foreign merchandise exported to Asia and Oceania was about $1,500,000 value against about $335,000 in 1914.

America's next-door neighbors, notably Canada, Mexico, Cuba, and Central America, are large customers for the foreign merchandise which we bring into the country and send out again. The total of foreign merchandise re-exported in the latest year for which details are available was to Canada about $23,000,000, Mexico approximately $4,000,000, Cuba nearly $4,000,000, and to South America over $2,000,000. England also took from us over $8,000,000 worth of foreign merchandise in the year in question, including meats, hides and skins, furs, fruits, tobacco and silk. France also took of our re-exportations about $5,000,000 worth, Germany another $5,000,000, and other European countries took limited quantities.

The total value of foreign merchandise re-exported from the United States since 1900 is about $2,000,000,000. Wool, cotton, silk, rubber, coffee, tropical fruits and art works are the chief articles re-exported. The wool comes largely from South America and Australia and passes on to Europe and Canada; the cotton is chiefly from Egypt and it is handed over to our neighbors in Mexico and Canada and a limited quantity to the Orient; the hides and skins are largely from Latin America, Asia and and Australia and go to Europe; the rubber comes chiefly from the Orient and goes largely to Canada and Latin America; and the coffee which comes from South and Central America passes to our nextdoor neighbors in Canada, Mexico, Cuba and considerable quantities to Europe.

What About The Great Famine Problem?

THE China International Famine Relief Committee at Peking estimated a few weeks ago that between fifteen and twenty millions of dollars would be required to meet the need of refugees from the famine resulting from the flood of last summer. Since this estimate was made before the beginning of the recent internal war, it should be safe to say that the needs are greater now, perhaps double what they were before the recent conflict began.

The article in The China Press yesterday describing the situation around the town of Liuho may be taken as typical of the entire district ranging from twenty to forty miles about this city. This means that the resources of Shanghai will be taxed this winter in caring for its own refugee problem which naturally must take precedence over the needs in the North from the standpoint of donations from this district. A group of prominent Chinese in Shanghai has already made an appeal to Peking asking that funds obtained from the famine surtax on the customs receipts at Shanghai should be used here instead of being remitted to Peking for use in the famine problem in the North.

The magnitude of the relief problem which faces China at this time both from the floods and from the internal military conflicts is staggering and probably constitutes the greatest problem which China has faced in this regard in recent years. It is of course difficult for foreigners and many Chinese to concentrate their attention upon this matter while fighting is still in progress, but this does not detract from the problem and neither does it detract from the fact that something must be done about it.

In many ways the famine problem which China faces this winter is similar to the problem which Russia and various parts of Europe faced in 1921. At that time there were plenty of influential persons who argued that nothing should be done; that Russia, especially, should be permitted to "stew in her own juice" as it were, until the country returned to its senses. However better counsel prevailed and by the end of 1921 the American Relief Association, a semi-official body headed by Mr. Herbert Hoover, secretary of the Department of Commerce, was feeding more than a million children in various parts of Russia.

Here in China the situation is in many respects similar to the situation of Russia in 1921. Just as Russia's political leaders were trying apparently to destroy the economic fabric of the land, here in China today the leaders of the country, militarists and politicians, are likewise doing everything in their power to plunge the country further into bankruptcy and destroy its independent economic and political existance. But the point must not be overlooked that the people who are suffering from the floods and the internal political conflicts are not those who were responsible for the trouble. The Chinese people who have had their homes looted and burned were not responsible for the internal war—but they are the victims nevertheless. Furthermore they constitute the foundation of the land and must be helped if the country is to be saved for a better day. If it were possible to isolate the military buccaneers and politicians and let them suffer it doubtless would be a good thing for China and its future place in the family of nations, but since this can't be done, foreigners and Chinese must face the problem.

In devising ways for handling the famine problem in China this time, the method applied to Russia in 1921 might be advantageous here. The American Relief Association was a semi-official body created by act of Congress and supplied with funds directly by Congress. The Association, or "A. R. A." as it was popularly known, made a contract with the Soviet Government whereby relief work was to be conducted in Russia free from official interference. Then armed with this agreement the officials of the A. R. A. under Col. Haskell went into Russia and managed the relief program throughout and without any interference whatever from the Soviet. In this way millions of Russians, especially women and children, were saved from starvation, and given another chance. In view of the fact that any extensive relief which China receives this winter must come from abroad and chiefly from the United States it would seem that some plan similar to the foregoing might be adopted here. The relief organisation should of course co-operate with relief organisations in China such as the China International Famine Relief Association of Peking, but before anything is done there should be a clear understanding that there is to be no interference in any way from the officials either of the Peking Government or the provincial military officials.

M. Herriot And The Soviet

WE cannot help wondering whether the good work accomplished by M. Herriot, the French Premier, in hastening an understanding with Germany is likely to be set at naught by the Paris Government's decision to treat with the Soviet. Some sort of recognition of the Soviet has already been reported, which is expected to be the prelude to something larger. In the early part of last September, the French Government decided to appoint a Committee of Five to consider the methods to be followed in order to bring about the resumption of relations between France and Russia, and also to advise it on the form of recognition of the Soviet Government which should be adopted. M. de Monzie, Senator, was elected chairman of the Committee, and the two other members then chosen were M. Fromageot, the jurist, and M. Joseph Noulens, who represents the holders of Russian bonds and other French private interests in Russia. M. de Monzie is a strong advocate of the resumption of relations with Russia, and last year he made a journey to Moscow to study conditions there. M. Noulens was formerly the French Ambassador in Petrograd. The appointment of this Committee followed a series of meetings held at the Quai d'Orsay, at which French holders of Russian bonds and representatives of the principal banks were present. The appointment of M. de Monzie and the terms of reference of the Committee were generally taken as indicating the Government's desire to recognise the Soviet Government in some form or other. It is known, however, that at the Quai d'Orsay meetings objection was raised by representatives of the bondholders and the banks to unconditional recognition, and the fact that the question was submitted to a Committee on which the bondholders were represented suggests that M. Herriot is adopting a more cautious procedure than he originally intended.

The need for caution is all the greater in view of the course of events in Great Britain and the shattering of the Labor Government's fortunes on the rocks of the Anglo-Soviet Treaties, which may now, to all intents and purposes, be regarded as defunct, as they are not likely to be ratified by a Parliament dominated by the Conservative Party. It is unthinkable that the lesson of the Anglo-Soviet Treaties will be lost on the people of France, who are essentially sound and prudent, much more so, in fact, than the easy-going Briton. M. Zinoviev's letter cannot have failed to create a profound impression on the members of every European chancellerie. Realising that the majority of what M. Zinoviev is pleased to term the British "bourgeoisie" are evidently against the Anglo-Russian Treaty, this arch-plotter of the Soviet had no scruples in seeking to embroil Britain in turmoil and disorder in order to gain the ends of the Russian Government. His letter, in part, said:

> "A settlement of Anglo-Russian relations will assist in revolutionising the international and British proletariat not less than a successful rising in any working districts in England, as the establishment of close contact between the British and Russian proletariats and the exchange of delegations and workers, etcetera, will make it possible for us to extend and develop propaganda and the ideas of Leninism in England and her colonies. Armed warfare must be preceded by a struggle against the inclinations for a compromise, which are embedded among the majority of British workmen and against the ideas of evolution and the peaceful extermination of capitalism. Only then will it be possible to count upon the complete success of an armed insurrection.

The letter, which is dated September 15, then says: "From your last report, evidently the agitation and propaganda work in the army is weak and in the navy very little better." It suggests that 'cells' should be established in all units of troops, particularly in large centers, also in munition factories and military store depots. Special attention should be paid to the latter, as in the event or the danger of war, with the aid of the latter and in contact with the transport workers it would be possible to paralyse all the bourgeois military preparations and to turn an imperialist into a class war.

It suggests the formation of a group of military specialists to be the future directors of a British Red Army and says:

> "Go attentively through the lists of military 'cells,' detailing from them more energetic and capable men. Turn your attention to more talented military specialists who have, for one reason or another, left the service and hold socialist views. Attract them into the ranks of the Communist Party if they desire honestly to serve the proletariat and desire in future to direct not blind mechanical forces in the service of the bourgeoisie but a national army. Form a directing operative head of the military section. Do not put this off to a future moment which may be pregnant with events and catch you unprepared."

We have quoted M. Zinoviev's letter at length in order to emphasise afresh to what lengths the Soviet is prepared to go to attain its ends. Great Britain's first Labor Government has learned this to its cost. It might be France's turn tomorrow. The Bosheviks naturally magnify their success. M. Karakhan recently was making much of the recognition accorded the Soviet by China and incidentally blackguarding the other Powers. In the case of the Anglo-Russian Treaty, M. Tchitcherin has described it as equivalent to international recognition of the October revolution of 1917, won as the result of a five years' peaceful duel with the capitalist countries. The Deputy Chief Commissar, Kameneff, recently demonstrated in a speech at Moscow that by signing the agreement Britain by treaty has recognised all the fundamentals of the economic and political system of the Soviets. The Izvestia on that occasion stated that, by the signature, Orientals have been convinced that the Soviet must win and establish the Bolshevist domination among the Eastern nations, beginning with the Soviet Republic in Bokhara, which is at the gates of Afghanistan, India, Persia and China, where M. Karakhan has been making mischief and appealing to Trotsky for support. There is plenty more to the same effect, as there is abundance of proof that in objects and in methods the Bolshevists are what they have always been—the ruthless apostles of an armed despotism whose capital object is the overthrow of the Christian religion, Christian morals and Christian civilisation in a welter of wholesale confiscation and murder. It will be interesting to see if France fails to profit by the experience of Great Britain. Whatever justification there might have been for an understanding between France and the Soviet, the disclosures made in Britain have put an entirely different complexion on the matter. If that exposure proves anything, it proves that the Soviet has not attained that plane of political morality where its word can be trusted. If an individual or a Government makes a pledge that is deliberately violated, the most essential basis of human intercourse is destroyed. No one will envy M. Herriot his job, for his Government is dealing with a group of men who are in quest of something for nothing. The Bolsheviks desire recognition as a lever for the spreading of their own gospel and for nothing else.

Other Views Than Ours On Th War In China

TELLING CHINA

(Des Moines, Iowa, Register)

Chinese factions have been approaching war, are now in fact quite vigorously at it, and wonderfully interesting is this Washington dispatch telling of the attitude that outside powers including the United States are taking. The dispatch is by The Associated Press, is unquestionably meticulous in its accuracy, and, as a matter of fact, describes a diplomatic stand that is exactly what the observing reader of news and history in this country or another would expect to be taken:

In part the news article follows:

"Diplomatic representatives of the United States, Great Britain, France and Japan have intervened in the Chinese civil war which is brewing around Shanghai, by formally notifying rival Chinese war lords today that a battle between land and naval forces in the vicinity of Shanghai was 'unthinkable and could not be tolerated.'

"The British, Japanese and French diplomatic officials, Mr. Bell (charge d'ffaires at Peking) said, called on Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese minister for foreign affairs and explained that they could not regard with equanimity the situation that was threatening Shanghai by sea.

"It was brought to Dr. Koo's attention that the whole river from the arsenal to Woosung was practically one vast harbor in which float the ships of every nation. For this reason the diplomatic representatives told Dr. Koo 'the idea of a naval battle in the greatest harbor in the east was unthinkable and could not be tolerated.'

"It was further pointed out to the Chinese minister that a battle between the forts at Woosung and the Peking navy practically would result in a blockade of the port of Shanghai."

In other words, the outside powers, including America, tell the Chinese that the privilege of warring must be foregone for the reason that war is disturbing, that it would injure commerce, would damage property and so on. But if China were a major power . . . ?

How amusing it is for the western and traditionally warlike nations, who are accustomed to holding up the Chinese as examples of pacifism that must never be emulated, that war is bad, that it is destructive, that it upsets things, and that "it cannot be tolerated." China may have her fight if she wishes, but she must not permit a port to be blockaded, she must not allow injury to be caused to investments from outside, she must put security of property and the peaceful aspirations of her guests and neighbors above her right to murder with firearms. And it is an aggregation of the very powers that hold their right to go to war above even their right to aspire to heaven that serves peremptory and threatening notice on China in this regard.

Of course the attitude of the powers is right. Of course the turmoil and loss and slaughter and disruption of war are "unthinkable" and "intolerable" in this world when all that is required to effect settlements is to use human intelligence and civil processes. But why, why is it only possible for us to think this through and to act in strict accordance when it is in China that the danger appears and a comparatively helpless people, militarily, that is breaking the peace?

"INTERNATIONAL POLICE"

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS:

Sir,—A new book "The Abolition of War," written by Sherwood Eddy and Kirby Page, has just arrived in China. In the latter part of the book, which is devoted to answering questions concerning war, the question "How far should our Government go in protecting the property and lives of our citizens in other lands?" is answered as follows:

Before this question can be treated adequately, it is necessary to remind ourselves of the historic consequences of the policy adopted by strong governments of sending armed troops into another country, usually a weak or backward country, in order to protect the lives and property of their citizens. The fact is that this has been the primary method of imperialistic expansion. Traders have gone from these strong countries into undeveloped regions or into weak nations. When life and property have been threatened they have called upon their own government for protection. Very frequently such calls for help have been the occasion for military occupation of another country. Sometimes this occupation has taken the guise of a "protectorate," while in many other cases it has meant outright annexation and permanent control. This practice has been followed by all the major powers during the past half century and has been one of the chief causes of war. Our own government has insisted upon its right to send troops into another country if necessary to protect American lives and property. In his message of December 1904 President Roosevelt said: "Chronic wrongdoing, or an impotence which results in a general loosening of the ties of civilised society, may in America, as elsewhere, ultimately require intervention by some civilised nation, and in the Western Hemisphere the adherence of the United States to the Monroe Doctrine may force the United States, however reluctantly, in flagrant cases of such wrongdoing or impotence to the exercise of an international police power." At various times we have acted on this principle and have sent armed troops into various central American countries, assuming a 'financial protectorate' over several of them for extended periods.

How far should our government go in protecting the property and lives in other lands? I have two strong convictions regarding this question: First, our government is not justified in sending armed troops into another country for any purpose; and second, whatever outside interference is needed in order to maintain security within a given country should come from a genuinely international source and not from a single nation. With regard to the first point, it may help us to think more clearly if we reverse the question and ask: Has another nation a right to send armed troops into the United States in order to protect the lives and property of their citizens who reside there. During the middle of the last century when life and property were unsafe in great sections of our country, would Germany or England have been justified in sending over an army to protect their citizens? Suppose that race riots continue in this country and that on numerous occasions citizens of France lose life and property, would this be a justification for French armed interference on our soil? Suppose the feeling against the Japanese grows more intense on the Pacific Coast and that the lives and property of Japanese citizens are constantly menaced, would we allow any interference from Japan? Suppose that in the riots and warfare incident to our industrial struggle, citizens of Italy are killed at periodic intervals, would we be willing to have Italian troops land on our shores? The answer to all these questions is obvious. Under no circumstances would we consent to armed interference in our affairs. Why, then, should we claim rights which we are not willing that other nations should possess?

Does this mean that no effort is to be made to protect the lives and property of our citizens in other lands? Not at all. It simply means that we will protect them in a way which does not violate the rights of other nations and that does not lead to periodic wars. Whatever outside interference is needed should come from a genuinely international source. Only in this way can really impartial and judicial action be taken.

President Roosevelt fell into a very common error when he referred to armed interference on our part as 'the exercise of an international police power.' That is exactly the way the British talk of their fleet and Poincare referred to the French army in the Ruhr. This is not only a common fallacy, but a very dangerous one. No nation has a right to arrogate to itself the duties of international police. The Latin American nations deeply resent our self-appointed guardianship over them. The time has come when we should abandon the practice of sending armed forces into other nations and should join resolutely in the task of creating effective international agencies of justice and security (viz League of Nations and World Court).

To what extent do we agree with this statement?

Yours, etc.

LOW PAY AND DISHONESTY

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir: For a long time the matter of dishonest action by the conductors, the passengers, and even the inspectors on the tram cars in the International Settlement has been troubling me. Several times I have met opposition because I have protested against this flagrant evil. Since the tram company may be partly to blame for the situation I wish to bring the matter up at this time.

If a Chinese passenger aboard a tram car makes a protest when he sees other passengers cooperating with the conductor in robbing the company he is met with two arguments. (1). The conductors are not properly paid, in spite of the fact that the tram company earns large dividends, and are compelled to act dishonestly in order to live. If conductors in the Settlement steal because they are not paid fair wages it would be a good business move for the company to raise wages immediately. The company is at present losing a large amount of money because of the dishonesty of its employees, probably far more than it saves by paying low wages. (2). The conductor is a Chinese whereas the company is owned by foreigners. The passengers aid the conductor to steal because they prefer to see their money go to Chinese rather than foreigners, especially when they feel that the Chinese employees are getting less than their fair share. My own feeling is of course that neither of these arguments are justification for dishonorable action. The chances are that the conductors, if they did not add to their wages by graft, could organise, and if necessary win higher pay by means of the strike. And as for the Chinese public aiding its own countrymen it might better be said that it is demoralising its own countrymen.

The present practice of allowing the conductors to cheat the company is having a demoralising effect in at least three ways. First, it gives the conductors satisfaction in dishonest success. Second, it taints the honor of all those who assist the conductors in his thieving. Third, it gives cause to the ordinary onlooker to imply that the Chinese public in general is accustomed to wink at dishonorable action.

This matter of allowing the tram conductors to steal a few coppers seems but a small thing to some people. One of my friends with whom I was discussing the matter said, "My attention is with bigger affairs. If I should bother myself with this I would be far too busy." Probably he represents the position of the average man. But is the position a correct one? I think not. As a matter of fact if we cannot be honest in small things how can we hope that others will trust us in big things? If we condemn the politicians for their selfishness and dishonesty in Peking, usually from mere hearsay, how shortsighted it is to remain indifferent to a thing before our eyes which is having such a demoralising effect upon us?

In the writer's opinion this matter is such an important one that the Chinese and foreign Chambers of Commerce should take some action. I wish also that the Shanghai community, both Chinese and foreign, might carefully consider it. Is the first step the granting of higher wages by the tram company? If not what should it be?

The Case Against Trousers

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

As far as I see there is no acceptable argument in favor of long trousers, or pantaloons, as against the various forms of knee-breeches, or knickerbockers. The fact that it is the fashion for men to wear 'em is not a good reason. Fashion has nothing to do with reason. The case against trousers appears to me to be overwhelming, but their very unreasonableness may be the cause of their apparent popularity.

It is a case worth studying a little. To begin with, just what is the matter with trousers?

First, they are inconsistent with human anatomy. The lower limbs of the human species are notably shapely. In that respect, indeed they are without rivalry in the animal kingdom. But trousers disguise this comeliness of form, and distort it into ugliness, often to an extreme degree, thus turning the human shape divine into a ridiculous caricature. A single look at a man with "baggy trousers" is enough to establish the truth of this charge in any unprejudiced mind. Put a man who knows that his trousers are strained out of shape at his knees, in the middle of a drawing room, with dozens of pairs of eyes regarding him, and his own feelings immediately pronounce sentence against the offending garment. Observe the care with which young men tenderly draw up their trousers at the knee when taking a seat. It is an unspoken complaint and condemnation. It is silent proof of rebellion against the humiliating tyranny of the unesthetic trouser leg. And yet, the tyranny flourishes. And sculptors eternize the memory of if by pillorying otherwise great-looking men in bronze or marble trousers! Historic truth alone can thus be pleased; for nobody can deny that that is how we look at present.

Not only are trousers inconsistent with human anatomy, and so offensive to the eye, but they do not serve their purpose as well as it is served by garments of the knickerbocker type. These can be made entirely free from the objectionable feature that sartorial eccentricity sometimes imposes. It would be practicable, if desired, to construct them so that they would possess the sole advantage of trousers, which is, facility of donning. This could be accomplished by cutting the garment so that the part below the knee conformed to the shape of the lower leg. As all is victims are aware, it is the lower part of the trouser leg that is the offender. After you have curled your legs under your chair, with ecstatic absorption in your work, suddenly rise to receive a lady caller. A casual glance at yourself in a mirror will shoot through you the pride-piercing sentiment which, tradition says, causes the peacock to drop its gorgeous fan. It is a rare man, indeed, who does not care about his looks. Even Napoleon was proud of his neat little foot. I doubt if any tailor or any dictator of fashions, could have forced him to wear trousers.

Every mechanical law is violated or, rather, maliciously obeyed by the lower half of the trouser leg. It also defies the law of utility and economy. It is like a loose sail flapping in the wind and, as far as it can, impeding motion. The cloth of which it is composed is wasted as far as either useful purpose or decorative effect is concerned. The curved line is not always "the line of beauty," and least of all when it is displayed in the discordant forms assumed by this detestable garment. There is every reason, however, why tailors and dealers in cloth should favor the continuance of the reign of trousers, because not only does it call for an unnecessary amount of material but it also forces those who cling to the desire of always looking as well as they can in the eyes of their contemporaries to buy two pairs of trousers with every suit of clothes and to supplement that precautionary measure by laying in odd pairs which may "go with" any kind of coat. I know a man who keeps eighteen pairs of trousers in his wardrobe, and yet his knees are not always beyond criticism. This is something to be "admired"—in the old sense of the word. It is neither art nor science.

Manila Chinese To Seek Indemnity For Mob Damage

A serious question is expected to arise from the recent anti-Chinese riots in Manila when Chinese residents demand indemnity for damage to property sustained during the occurrences. The indemnity demand will be filed with governor general Wood, reports from Manila yesterday indicated, and may be taken up with Washington in event of unfavorable decision in Manila.

Steps are being taken by prominent Chinese residents to open negotiations with the insular authorities in this connection.

The city of Manila will pay the indemnity, if the petition is decided favorable to the Chinese by the authorities. Claims are expected to amount to several thousand pesos.

Should the insular government deny the petition, the Chinese merchants affected will take up the matter with Washington through the Peking government. International negotiations may then follow, at which the Philippine government will be represented by the bureau of insular affairs.

Under established international policy, the local government is in duty bound to pay the indemnity. Under that policy, the Chinese government paid indemnity for the loss of lives of Americans killed by Chinese bandits last year.

Mayor Romualdez fears however that the city government will not be able to pay any indemnity because of its present financial difficulties.

With a view to putting more restriction on Chinese immigration into the Philippines, Senator Isabelo de los Reyes has sent to Insular Collector of Customs Aldanese a copy of the Chinese bill passed by the house with the request that suggestions be made whereby such a policy can be made effective.

It is believed that the recent Chinese-Filipino embroglio inspired Senator de los Reyes to find a means of further restricting the Chinese immigration into the Philippines in order to reduce what is said to be an enormous number of these aliens found at present in the islands. It is understood that in addition to this an investigation of the office controlling the coming and leaving of Chinese under the supervision of the bureau of customs will be made to find if officials are committing irregularities.

It is understood, however, that customs officials are not in favor of any legislation tending to put a ban to Chinese who are qualified, under the present law, to go into the islands. It is claimed that under this law the Chinese are already restricted. It is also claimed that if the Chinese are completely prohibited from going into the islands, difficulties that might eventually endanger the security of the Philippines could easily arise.

What is needed, it is pointed out, is reform of the immigration act of Congress applied here under which the Chinese merchants doing business in the Philippines are permitted to bring over their families from China. The greater portion of Chinese immigrants coming over is made up of children of merchants already established so that if immigration is desired to be further restricted, the merchants should be deprived of that right.

LABOR OFFICE ATTACHE MAKES VISIT IN CHEFOO

Fifty Percent Cigarette Tax Causes Consternation Among Dealers

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Chefoo, Oct. 29.—M. Pierre Henri of the International Labor Office of the League of Nations and Dr. Maitland, who is inspecting hygienic conditions of factories in China, are at present in Chefoo.

The tax on cigarettes levied by the Shantung Governor, which is approximately 50 percent of the selling price, has caused consternation among local tobacco dealers. All cigarettes retailed in Chinese shops are subject to this levy and many dealers have refused to continue business unless the tax is abolished or at least reduced.

Chefoo continues to be under martial law and the streets are deserted after 10 p.m. The city is patrolled by armed police all night and any wanderer is immediately arrested.

Native shops have been hard hit through the continued depression in trade. It is estimated that over 1,600 Chinese shops have closed their doors in the last month. The number of unemployed has considerably increased and the consequent poverty has resulted in many cases of larceny.

The U. S. S. Huron returned to Chefoo yesterday morning and will stay indefinitely. Admiral Thomas Washington and his staff are on board. The Admiral's yacht, the General Alava, has left for Shanghai, where she will enter dry dock for repairs.

Silk Report

Messrs. William Little & Co. state in their silk report under date Shanghai, October 31:

Our last report was dated 24th inst.

The market continues to rule very quiet. There have been a few purchases reported in Steam Filatures at a considerable decline on former ruling rates and prices are very mixed.

Mienchew Filatures also record a smart drop, but seem to have steadied up at the decline.

Generally speaking consuming markets display little interest contenting themselves with cheap parcels here and there. Cables from Japan report the market weak again with Shinshu No. 1, Yen 1,900.

Dallas And Brand Share Honors In Second Day Of Autumn Race Meeting

Ponies Run True To Form, With Few Surprises; Bonnie Scotland Wins Chinese Cup And Shanghai Stakes

Messrs. Dallas and Brand were the winners in the second day of the Shanghai Race Club's autumn meet. These two splendid riders took nine of the ten events of the day between them, Brand taking five and Dallas four. In some of these races they were racing against one another. The only other rider to record a victory was H. Maitland, in the third race, The China Cup, in which Brand's mount, The Country Bird, came in third, Dallas not riding.

There were no great surprises, the ponies running pretty true to form throughout. The Chinese Cup and Shanghai Stakes was won by Bonnie Scotland, with Mr. Dallas riding.

The first race of the day, the Pagoda Cup, was a win for Wealthy Merchant, with Brand up. Eighteen ponies started over the mile and a quarter course, and Strathdeen took the lead, but fell back before reaching the bend, Athlone, O'Brien riding, forging ahead. Wealthy Merchant, on the rails, took the lead, and increased it down the straight, winning by three lengths. There was an excellent race for second between Athlone, Varnished Duck (McBain up), and Mustard (Bauld up), Athlone beating the McBain pony by a neck.

The Northern Cup, three-quarters of a mile, was a second victory for Brand, riding Symphony, he coming in a winner in a field of 21 ponies. At the beginning of the race The Goshawk, Pearl, and Right Royal started off in front, but were all passed at the bend, several ponies forging ahead. Symphony took the lead as they reached the straight, followed by Archer, with White up, but Symphony increased his lead and came in a winner by many lengths. There was a close contest for second between Archer and Wyvleafield (Edgar up), the former winning the place by half a length. Both these ponies were outsiders, and paid dividends of $45.50 and $42.60 respectively, the best of the day.

The third race, the China Cup, was an easy win for Theaterland, with Maitland riding. Seven ponies started in this mile event, Silver Polish taking the lead. Theaterland came to the front half-way round, followed by Master Robert, Heard riding, and the two came into the straight neck and neck. Theaterland increased his lead here, and won by many lengths over the We Two pony. The Country Bird, Brand up, was third.

Bonnie Scotland, with Dallas riding, won the next event, the Chinese Cup and Shanghai Stakes. This was Dallas' first race of the day. Five ponies entered for the mile and a half. Altai, Vida up, started off fast, and passing the judges' stand the first time was in the lead, followed by Young Bill, Springfield riding, Bonnie Scotland being last in line. Young Bill forged to the front before reaching the bend, followed by Covellite, with Capt. Sassoon up. Bonnie Scotland came up just before reaching the straight, where he passed the other ponies easily in a splendid finish, coming in many lengths ahead of Altai. Young Bill was third, three lengths behind Altai.

The fifth race, the Lama Miau Stakes, was Brand's third win of the day, on Harbin. Ten ponies entered for the two miles. Petersfield, Edgar up, shot away far in the lead at the start, and coming down the stretch the first time was way ahead, with the other ponies well bunched behind, Harvest King, Harbin, and Kings Cross leading. Harvest King took the lead from Petersfield before the bend, but coming around was passed by Harbin, Forestland (Dallas up), and Patsfield (Heard), and these three star jockeys staged a splendid race down the home stretch, Harbin winning by a length over Forestland, with Patsfield a length and a half further behind.

The sixth race, the Rubicon Plate, was a second victory for Dallas, on Booran. Seven ponies started in the mile and a quarter, and Booran got away in the lead and maintained it throughout. At the bend The Nightingale, McBain up, and The Red Bird, Brand riding, tried to close up, and Arrow (Crokam) also forged ahead, but Booran shot away again, keeping to the rail, and won by two lengths in an excellent finish, The Red Bird being second five lengths ahead of Arrow.

The seventh race, the Racing Stakes, was Dallas third win, on Borderland, making it a third for the Day stables also. Eleven ponies started for the mile and a quarter. Don Alphonso, Springfield up, took the lead, and increased it before reaching the bend. Borderland, Dallas up, and Brackenfield, Heard riding, overtook him coming into the stretch, and the final was between these two ponies, Borderland winning by a length and a half, Don Alphonso came in three lengths behind Brackenfield.

The eighth race, the Sycee Stakes, was again between Brand and Dallas, the former riding The Young Bird and making his fourth win. Twelve ponies started for the seven furlongs. Fluke took the lead from the start, and led till the bend. Rounding the bend the Young Bird passed him, followed by Christmas Rattle, Portland. Dallas riding, forged to the front in the straight, followed by Veterock, Sokoloff up, and Portland and The Young Bird fought out the race in a splendid finish, The Young Bird winning by a length. Veterock was a length and a half behind Portland.

In the ninth race Dallas made his fourth victory, on Ataman. Nine ponies started in this race, the Siccawei Plate, a mile and a quarter. The Knight Moon riding, got away in the lead, but White Knight, Springfield up, and Ataman overtook him. Ataman kept on ahead, and took the lead, increasing it to several lengths over White Knight when coming down the straight. Roman Oriole, McBain up, was a poor third, many lengths behind White Knight, Brand, on Woodcroft, failed to place.

In the tenth, however, Brand made his fifth win of the day, on Title-Deed in the Mongolian Plate. Twenty ponies started in this race, of seven furlongs. Riverside Boy took the lead, but dropped back rounding the bend, and Title-Deed led coming into the straight, with Windermere (Bauld riding) and Sweet Sensation (Heard up) close behind. The final stretch was a splendid race, Title-Deed winning by a length over Windermere, with Sweet Sensation three-quarters of a length further behind.

BASKETBALL MEET THIS EVENING AT THE ROWING CLUB

Foreign League Being Formed For This Winter; General Invitation

The Far Eastern Contest Committee's meeting for the organisation of the Foreign Basketball League here this season is being held at the Rowing Club this evening at 5.30, and all interested in this splendid indoor game are requested to attend.

This league in past years, while conducted in a very informal friendly way, has been a source of much pleasure and benefit to those who have played and attended the games. Last year, because of the difficulty encountered by several of the teams in securing a floor on which to play, was in some ways an off season, but with the completion of the new Basket Ball Pavilion on the National Athletic Grounds in Frenchtown this difficulty is obviated. This Pavilion, which will give Shanghai players a first class floor on which to play, is being erected by the Far Eastern Contest Committee, and is a section of the enterprise of which the Pioneer Base Ball Field, promoted by the China Base Ball Commission, is already a successful unit.

A preliminary invitation has been sent out by Dr. J. H. Gray, the Hon. Secretary of the Foreign Basket Ball League Committee, to some twenty or more clubs or groups in Shanghai. Favorable replies have come in from the Rowing Club (possibly 2 teams), Shanghai Recreation Club, Machine Gun Company, and Base Ball Club. It is hoped that representatives from not only those who have been written or spoken to but from any group in the city that desires to play in the league will be present.

The meeting being called is an open one and all will be welcome. Players who are unattached should also come, as it will be possible to locate them with some good group. Any further information desired can be secured from Mr. J. H. Gray, Honorary Secretary, 20 Museum Road. (Telephone Central 5287.)

TENNIS TOURNEY CONTINUES AT THE FRENCH CLUB HERE

Wade Wins Twice; Kuwabara Beats Mancel Smith; Tang's Victories

The tennis tournament at the French Club continued yesterday, a number of interesting matches being played off. Wade defeated both Wheen and Toussaint in the hardcourt championships, and Kuwabara won from Mancel Smith in two straight sets. In the grass court singles, however, the Japanese star was beaten by Rasburn in two straight sets. Tang beat Klimanek and Goolden in the same class.

In the Mixed Doubles Mr. and Mrs. Elmore had a walkover, and Mrs. Pearson and W. Toussaint beat Mrs. Perreira and R. Canavarro.

Mrs. van Haute, the champion in last month's tournament, was defeated by Mrs. Moss in the Ladies' Singles.

HARDCOURT CHAMPIONSHIPS

Men's Singles

Wade defeated Wheen by a scores of 6-0 and 6-1, having a walkaway victory, but in the following match, with Toussaint, his opponent got a lead of five games to his one before he caught up, and defeated him for the first set, 7-5. After taking the first set Wade easily made it two straight by taking the second half of their match by a 6-2 score.

Kuwabara, the Japanese star, found no trouble in defeating Mancel Smith in two straight sets, 6-3 and 6-4.

Mixed Doubles

Mr. and Mrs. Elmore defeated Mrs. Heaton Smith and D. H. Hazel by a walkaway score of 6-0, 6-1.

Mrs. C. D. Pearson and W. Toussaint beat Mrs. Perreira and R. Canavarro by scores of 9-7 and 6-0.

Ladies' Singles

Mrs. Moss defeated Van Haute 6-4 and 6-0. In the opening set of this match Mrs. Van Haute led with a score of 4 games to her opponent's two, but Mrs. Moss rapidly caught up, and in the final set Mrs. Van Haute was swamped by a six love score.

Mrs. Mallet defeated Mrs. Bary in straight sets of 6-2 and 6-4.

Ladies Doubles

Miss Firth and Miss McCloskey defeated Mrs. Bidgood and Miss Boyce in two out of three sets, 6-4, 5-7, and 6-2. A great deal of interest was shown by the spectators in this match, which resulted in a very even contest and fine play.

Mrs. Moss and Mrs. Pearson beat Mrs. Palenthee and Mrs.

Grantland Rice Tells Story Of Senators' First Defeat In Series

In the second inning Johnson gave Kelley a high fast one inside and Kelly thumped it on a line to left. Goslin ran until stopped by the short three-foot fence. He could have gathered it in with just one more stride. Halted by the wooden barrier, Goslin made a desperate leap to bring the ball down, but failed by inches, as it sailed into the crowd an inch or so above his glove. Goslin and the ball disappeared into the crowd together, but the ball counted first. Two innings later Terry, the Giant first baseman, caught another Johnsonian fast one, and although a left-hand hitter whaled the ball on the same line to left. Once again the ball disappeared over the left fence into the crowd for another Giant home run and New York was leading 2 to 0.

NEHF NOT HIT UNTIL FOURTH

It was not until the fourth inning that Nehf, the cool and canny, yielded his first hit. In the sixth McNeely dumped a double down the left field line and two infield outs brought him home.

Was there any clamor? Was Babel quiet?

Is a Yale cheer leader silent when Harvard is thrown for a loss?

Has a political candidate anything to say?

Does a golfer ever speak of the putts he missed?

Our ears are still throbbing.

In the meanwhile Johnson held the even tenor of his way. He was fanning Giants as slaves once fanned Algerian kings. He had them in the phantom swing, paddling the balmy ozone with earnestness and valueless zest. But he was apparently pitching against a forlorn hope until Bleuge singled in the ninth and Peck drove him home with a long double to the leftfield fence that knotted the count.

Did we mention the fact there had been a racket in the sixth?

We take it back. Here came the cyclonic thunder of the day. Here came the crashing artillery of 38,000 human voices in one of the wildest vocal frenzies anyone ever heard. Hats went into the air; cushions sailed out upon the field; fans from the center-field bleachers, no longer human, rushed out upon the grass to embrace one another. Here was baseball at its highest point.

Here was conclusive proof that the game must be preserved against all enemies and still held a part of the Nation's life and recreation. There was no sordid club ownership here. There was no player's greed for more gold.

There was the enthusiasm of the thousands who, for the moment, were dipped into bliss that doesn't come too often to the multitudes. Washington had come from behind and tied the score. Washington was going to win. What else mattered?

LINE HITS CURVE TO FOUL

It looked that way in the tenth. When, with one out. Harris and Rice both singled, Johnson at last was within one lone hit of the 38-year-old dream. Goslin whipped a terrific drive over first that brought on an uproarious cheer until it finally curved foul far down the line by less than two feet. Then Goslin passed out.

Judge started another outburst when he, also, slammed a line drive that curved foul by less than a stride. Here was the break of battle and the fortunes of war. Either blow might just as well have been a clean hit.

But raw fate has no thought of what might happen on beyond. Judge's line blow curved foul and then he, too, passed on and out. Here was a great chance gone.

Johnson finally rolled up twelve strike outs, but when he passed Hank Gowdy, always fighting to the last ditch, after Hank had drawn two strikes, the guillotine was ready to descend. He had two strikes on Nehf when the star Giant pitcher chopped a short blow to center. McNeeley covered the ball, caught it, held it for a moment, but finally dropped it as his knee hit the turf. Even then he might have nailed Gowdy at second, but he lost the ball, fumbled it upon recovery, and then threw wild past second while Gowdy raced to third and Nehf to second.

This was the final thrust that finally brought the brilliant Johnson down. There is no armor against fate. No human is imperrious to the assaults of unfavorable destiny. Both men scored later on. It was after this that Washington's game and savage rally came within a breath of tieing the score, and despite Sam Rice's poor judgment in racing to second, only a brilliant stop and throw by Kelley at second saved the day. Here was a game where Johnson and Nehf shared the honors. Either team might have won. But it was written in the books just one way. Genius can be neglected too long. Eighteen years is no brief interval in the human span. Johnson pitched his soul out to win that first world's series start, but in spite of fanning twelve Giants he lacked the break of the game to carry him through. He did his part.

No single defeat could weaken for a moment his imposing prestige among Washington fans, who were rooting for Johnson more than they were for victory. They were steeped in the desire to see this stalwart of the game come safely through to port. But when it is written otherwise in the book of chance there is nothing more to be said or done.

Johnson did his share. He was as great in defeat as any one could have been in victory. And as the 38,000 just at the edge of twilight filed from the park there was just one expression and just one thought—"It was tough luck for Walter, but he'll pitch again."

Russian Welter Weight Champion Now In America

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 13.—Benny Soloff, the Russian welter-weight title holder, now in America, has broadcasted through his manager, Biddy Bishop, a challenge to all and sundry.

Soloff is not particular whom he fights, however, and is ready to take on a bout at a day's notice. Benny is keen after Joe Anderson of Covington, Ky., but the phenomenal kid has yet to display any eagerness to wage combat with the boy from the land of the Bolsheviks.
